SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST

COMMERCIAL AIRPLANES, says American aviation giant Boeing's vice president of global market analysis, Alan K. Mitchell, "China is becoming the key driver of the global civil aviation industry." He went on to explain that China's steadily increasing air traffic is being driven by both rapid economic growth and a growing number of middle-class consumers seeking air travel. Mitchell predicted that China will become the world's largest civil aviation market by 2020.

China's civil aviation industry is also expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020, according to Xinhua. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "The country's civil aviation transport market is expected to surpass that of the United States by 2020, making China the world's largest civil aviation market.

According to the International Civil Aviation Organization, China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020, said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency. "And China's civil aviation industry is expected to become the world's leading aviation market by 2020," said the news agency.